President's Comments...

Dear fellow Members,

As I write this article, many of us in Fargo/Moorhead and throughout the Red River Valley have been involved in the Flood either directly or indirectly. My thoughts and prayers to those of you who have had water in your home, and my deepest gratitude to those of you who have volunteered your time in assisting this flood fight. The history book has been rewritten and soon the massive clean-up effort will begin.

When you receive this month's issue hopefully it will be time to get that boat out of storage and ready for some fishing.

Hope to see you at our April meeting!

Steve Garten, President

2009 FLW RAFFLE

It's time for the 2009 FLW co-angler entry raffle. This year we have a co-angler entry for the Leech Lake FLW tournament on June 10-13 up for grabs. The lucky winner could be you, and if the streak continues, you could win a lot of money. Even if you don't place in the money, you will still be able to fish along side some of the best walleye anglers in the county.

In 2007 we gave out one for the Devils Lake FLW tournament. Club member Larry Williams of Fargo, was the lucky winner and turned the $5.00 ticket into $10,000.00 by winning the co-angler side of the tournament. In 2008 we gave out one for the Cass Lake FLW tournament. Josh Johnson of Fargo was the winner of the raffle and turned his $5.00 into $1,700.00 by placing 6th on the co-angler side. Tickets are available from any of the board members or from me (Scott-701-388-4408). Get you tickets early as the drawing will be held during the April general member meeting on April 16.

FM WALLEYES 2009 ANGLERS' NIGHT OUT

The 2009 Anglers' Night Out brought a crowd out to the Doublewood Inn on Thursday, March 19th. Joel Heitkamp, KFGO personality, served as the evening's M.C.. Those in attendance were treated to one of the outdoor media's most widely recognized names. Babe Winkelman shared angling insight and stories through an eye catching multi-media presentation.

Babe contends that "catching walleye is easy, finding active walleyes is the hard part". He suggested that anglers narrow the search to find these active walleyes by considering the factors that dictate where they may be found. These factors include:

1. Nature of the beast – what makes a walleye, a walleye?
2. Seasonal influences – what motivates a walleye at particular times of the year?
3. Available food – where you find food, you will likely find walleyes.
4. Available structure – what structure will provide all of the necessary factors to hold active walleyes?
5. Available cover – the biggest walleyes in any system will take the best available cover.
6. Local weather/moon phase – what time of the day/month will walleyes be most active.
7. Man made influences – what has man done to influence the activity of walleyes in a given system.

As captivating as the useful walleye fishing information was, the real impact of Babe Winkelman's message was his focus on including family in your interests and pursuit of outdoor sports. Babe was accompanied by his wife Kris and daughter, who shared their perspective on family time spent on fishing trips. The evening ended with a video of highlights from two trips where Babe and his late father fished for trophy pike and for crappie. The success we find in this sport isn't measured by the fish in the live well, but rather the memories we have with friends and family. By Kyle Agre

FM WALLEYES UNIVERSITY CUSTOM ROD BUILDING CLASS

By Kyle Agre

Twelve young anglers ranging in age from seven to fifteen gathered on Saturday, March 14th to learn the fundamentals of custom rod building and to build their own fishing rod. The class, part of the FM Walleyes University youth anglers education program, was conducted by Chuck DeRemer. Chuck is an active member of FM Walleyes and a professional custom rod builder. Assisting with the class were Gaylen Briese and Gary Sauvageau, both with extensive experience in custom rod building.

The young anglers, accompanied by a parent or adult, learned about the components of a quality fishing rod, how they are assembled together, why each of these items are important and how they contribute to the quality of the fishing rod they were building. They learned how to identify the spine of a rod blank and how to place the line guides for optimal performance.

Line guides and hook keepers were then hand wound, the rod personalized and a finish coat of epoxy was added. The end result for each of the individuals was a fishing rod that would rival any $200 store bought rod.

FM WALLEYES, INC. MEMBERS GO ON AN ICE FISHING EXCURSION TO LAKE WINNIPEG AND FIND MONSTER WALLEYES

By Kyle Agre

March 20 through 22nd a contingency of FM Walleyes, Inc. members traveled to Selkirk, MB for an ice fishing excursion with the Walleye Anglers Association of Manitoba (WAAM). The hospitality shared by the members of WAAM was outstanding and the walleye bite nearly as impressive. Events included a social on Friday and Saturday night and an on-ice chili feed/fish fry for lunch on Saturday. Those in attendance found that members of WAAM had many things in common with. These enthusiastic anglers were proud of the fishery located right in their back yard and were more than willing to share information, enabling everyone to enjoy a successful trip. Craig Stapon, a Canadian muskie fishing celebrity, and Roger Sternn, the local walleye guru and president of WAAM shared tips and insight at the Friday evening social.

The pursuit of Lake Winnipeg "Greenback" walleyes this time of year consisted of venturing six miles out on a lake the size of Lake Erie to fish near the mouth of the Red River. Once in a suitable location, auger extensions were a necessity as the ice ranged from three to four feet thick. The walleyes in this part of Lake Winnipeg didn't relate to any of the typical Minnesota structure, but rather roam the open expanses of water following forage. Many local anglers pointed out that ice ridges provided underwater structure that concentrated the baitfish. Others followed the "shallow in the morning, deeper as the day went on" routine. Early morning locations found the walleyes as shallow as 7-8 FOW. Given the 3-4' of ice, this left only 4-5' of fishable water beneath the ice. Later in the day, depths of 14 - 18' were common. Buckshot rattle spoons, chubby darters and rattlin' raps tipped with a salted minnow were the lures of choice.

The results were phenomenal. Many FM Walleyes members caught "personal bests", with fish in the 8 to 11 lb range not uncommon. Just as impressive were the "eaters", ranging from 20-21 5/8" long and weighing in well over 4 lbs.

A special thanks to Dave Randash and Jay Kulla for planning this event and working out all of the important details. Discussions included the possibility of making this an annual event. Given the success of this year's trip I would suggest making reservations at the Selkirk Inn & Conference Center very soon!

'Pre-Flight' Your Boat Trailer Before You Take Off for The Wild Blue Water

A properly maintained and loaded boat trailer makes getting to the water easier and safer. BoatU.S. Angler, part of BoatU.S., the largest recreational boating association in the United States, suggests a driveway "preflight check" before you head to the lake and offers these suggestions.

Loading your boat and trailer: Most trailer manufacturers recommend loading your boat with seven to eight percent of the total weight placed on the tongue. This helps prevent fishtailing and gives you good control on the road. But you also need to think about balance. If you are planning a long trip with sporting gear and camping equipment loaded inside your boat, distribute the items evenly so that tongue weight is still maintained but gear isn't piled up in one spot. It's also very important to make sure you do not exceed the trailer manufacturer's maximum weight limit.

Pre-departure trailer checks: Performing the following trailer checks will ensure your safety on the road and at the launch ramp.

- Before you hook up, check the radiator coolant, transmission and the engine oil levels in your tow vehicle. Any suspension issues must be addressed now. This is also the time to examine the hitch, receiver and safety devices.
- On level ground, couple the trailer to the tow vehicle and check the brakes on tow vehicle and trailer, trailer lights and turn signals. Safety chains should be crossed, secured with beefy fasteners and not make contact with the pavement.
- Ensure that sideview mirrors allow you see a complete picture of the sides of the boat and trailer wheels. If not, get a pair of temporary towing mirrors.
- Walk around the trailer and towing vehicle looking for any problems such as damaged springs or chafed wiring. Inspect tires for tread wear, inflation and overall condition. Check your spare tires, too.
- While at the tires, check the tightness of the trailer wheel lugs. Repeat this check periodically during your trip. Also ensure bearings are greased and dust caps in place.
- Be prepared for a potential roadside breakdown by ensuring any that tools, emergency equipment and foul-weather gear is readily accessible.
- Finally, check and inspect all bow, transom and gunwale tie-down straps.

BoatU.S. Angler is a new program from BoatU.S., the nation's largest association of recreational boaters. Its mission is to protect the interests of boat-owning freshwater anglers, increase boating safety, provide consumer assistance and ensure fishing remains worry-free. For more information, go to BoatUSAngler.com or call (866) 906-0013.
