Scott Fairbairn

Thursday, January 15th • Doublewood Inn, Fargo

Scott Fairbairn's seminar, Four Cornerstones of Walleye Success is an overview of the building blocks for successful walleye angling. This seminar is built to give a strong foundation in the four major walleye techniques.

Scott Fairbairn is a full-time professional walleye angler from Hager City, Wisconsin. Over the last ten years Scott has quickly become a major force in the walleye tournament arena. His major accomplishments include two tournament wins on the Professional Walleye Trail (PWT) and fifteen top ten finishes in major walleye tournaments. Scott has qualified for ten national championships and in 1998 became the youngest angler at 25 to win the coveted PWT "Angler of the Year" title.

Scott's success as a walleye angler can be directly attributed to his ability to take the complexity of modern walleye angling and create simple easy to understand formulas for catching walleyes. Scott has shared these formulas with walleye anglers throughout the walleye world through print and television as well as through the numerous seminars he conducts each year.

Scott's current sponsors include Crestliner Boats, Evinrude Outboards, Garmin Electronics, Rapala, Blue Fox, Northland Fishing Tackle, Mustad, Berkley Trilene, Fireline and Powerbait, JNB Originals, Guest Chargers, Irish Setter, Aqua-Innovations and www.thenextbite.com.

See you all on Thursday, January 15th at the Doublewood Inn, Fargo, ND.

Doors open at 6:30 and the program starts at 7:00 Sharp!

Please bring a non-perishable food item for the Food Bank.

President's Comments

I hope everyone has survived the Holidays and the Flu Season to try out the new fishing gadgets you received as gifts. I know I am excited to try out my new Buzz stick. I just know it'll double my catch rate, right?

Well, Last year there were two big happenings in the club. We purchased the Cormorant Fall Classic and a tournament trailer for $6000. The first year revenues from the tournament provided a net profit around $3000. The trailer/tournament will have paid for itself after the 2004 Cormorant Fall Classic. We had 97 teams compete for cash awards.

Ron Sahr received the club's newly implemented Distinguished Member Award. The Award will be given annually to the person who best displays the ability to unselfishly work towards the clubs goals. Please get your nominations in to a board member by January 23rd. The award will be given away at the February 19th Annual Meeting.

Lastly, The club owes a Big THANK YOU to the following folks who gave of their time to make this club better for you: The Board of Directors for their time, energy and ideas in making our club what it is, Jack Fuller for making Walleye Lines enjoyable to read with his monthly contributions, Jean Nygaard for her time & effort in managing the Pelican Tournament, Bob Jensen & Tom McGeehan for running the Cormorant Tournament, Steve Hall & Guy Kimball for organizing the club fishing outings, Bruce Bokinskie for running the calendar raffle, Jeremy Frie for writing reviews of the meetings for the Walleye Lines and all the others who have pitched in thru ought the past year.

Happy New Year and Best Fishes,

Chad Maloy

CLUB HATS & STICKERS

Many members have been asking for stickers and hats. Well, the club has finally put in an order for some baseball hats and stickers. We hope to have them available for the January meeting. Stickers will be $3. Hats will be in the $15 range.

Have a safe and fun fishing season from

Good Photos Take Time

By Chad Maloy

Since joining FM Walleyes Unlimited seven years ago I have had opportunities to fish many great walleye lakes in the Midwest with many club members. This opportunity has drastically increased the number of trophy fish I have caught. Being one that likes to practice catch & release I enjoy taking lots of photos of the fish caught on our trips. Here are a few tips I picked up about taking photos that I would like to share with you.

Cameras • You do not need to purchase an expensive camera to take a good photo. I usually just purchase the $5 single use 35mm cameras with 200-speed Kodak or Fuji film and a flash. Good film is important. They are not the best cameras but do work fairly good for close up photos. The nice thing is that I do not have to worry if I break it or drop it into the water. Other cameras will allow you to use a variety of film speeds and have more flexibility changing lenses. Digital cameras are becoming popular and from my research a 3mp is good for most photos and 5mp if you intend to manipulate the photos or if you want enlargements.

Film Speed • Film speed relates to the speed in which the film captures light. A fast film (400, 800) is good for action photos and low light situations. However, it is grainier and you will lose sharpness. Slow speed film (200, 100, 50) will give you a sharper photo and will allow for better enlargements. A good overall film for fishing photos is 200-speed. It is available in the single use cameras. If you are looking for magazine quality photos you may want to use 50-speed slide film. The down side to slower film is that you need to have a steady hand.

Lighting • The position of the sun is very important. The old rule is to have the sun behind the photographer. However, this puts the sun right in the eyes of the subject causing them to squint. It is better for the sun to be at a 45-degree angle so it is to the side of the photographers shoulder. This creates more depth and reduces the chance of squinting. If the sun is too far to the side or behind the subject there will be lots of shadows resulting in a poor photo. Use your flash when you are outdoors but remember that it is only effective when the subject is less than 10' away.

Composition • Good composition can make the difference between a snap shot that is put into the drawer and a photo, which is framed and put up on the wall. Besides getting a mount, a photo is the only way to preserve a trophy. Take a little time and compose a good photo, it may be the only reminder of the outing. Once that trophy fish is landed put it into the live well until you are ready to take the photo. Do a little thinking. Do they want to be holding a rod & reel? Do they want the lure or jig to be hanging from the fish's mouth? It is important to clear the clutter so the photo doesn't look messy. Survey the area. Is there a nice shoreline you can use for the background? If so, motor over and position the boat for proper lighting. Once everything is set and you have your camera ready, have the angler take the fish out of the live well. Wipe off any blood with a wet towel. Have the angler hold the fish in the manner they wish but give them tips on positioning the fish to get the proper lighting. Turn the body of the fish in or out to catch more light, lift it up or down, get the dorsal fin to stand up, make sure your fingers are behind the fish as much as possible, etc... the fish should be held out towards the camera and just to the side or just below the anglers face. Keep it tight. If the fish is held vertical, take a vertical photo or if held horizontal take a horizontal photo. The photographer should be within 5 feet or less so that the angler and the fish fill most of the viewfinder. Leave a little space at the top of the photo with the center of the subject just below the center of the viewfinder. Take photos from straight on, shooting down will cause the subject to appear smaller than they actually are and shooting up at the subject will make it appear larger. Hmmmm, maybe try taking photos from a lower position than the subject to make it appear larger. Crop the photo so you do not cut off the fish or the angler. Review the background to make sure that there is not a telephone pole growing out of the anglers head. Take multiple shots so that the chances of a good photo are increased. It never fails that when a single photo is taken you blink, sneeze, or something else happens to diminish the quality of the photo.

Developing • The last piece in the making of a good photo is developing. A good developer can make up for mistakes in exposure and lighting. It is important to take your film to a place that will take the time to develop it properly. If you have an important photo do not take it to the one-hour photo lab at the grocery store around the corner. I take my film to Monarch Photo where they have professional photographers on staff. They have been very helpful in answering most questions.

I hope this helps some of you improve your photo success. If you have a nice photo of you or a fishing friend please submit it to Walleye Lines and share it with us all.

According To...

by Lester Sjollom

According to Mandy LaZella Erickson, Fisheries Specialist from the Detroit Lakes Area Fisheries Office, their office had a lot of success this past year rearing walleyes. The ponds they leased access to produced enough walleyes to fill all of their stocking quotas – including some supplemental stocking – and they were also able to assist other areas in the state fill their quotas. While some of the ponds didn't produce any results, success can vary from year to year. The ponds that did not produce will this year may turn out to be the ponds with the best results next year. This is normal, and emphasizes why it is important to have as many ponds as possible. Details follow:

YMCA Ice Fishing
January 24th, 2004

The 3rd Annual YMCA Ice Fishing Tournament is being held on January 24th at Camp Cormorant from 12-3pm. FM Walleyes Unlimited, Inc. has committed to donate $1000 to be used to sponsor underprivileged youth and bring them to the tournament, many have never ice fished before. Proceeds from the tournament will provide scholarships to the YMCA's Camp Cormorant. Last year over 150 scholarships were given out.

We can use your help in this project. We will be drilling holes and also working with the kids catching lots of fish. For more info call: Jerry Thoenke (235-4652), Scott Johnson (281-0126), Ron Sahr (293-1918) or Chad Maloy (203-2491)
